CAMPAIGN

WHO IS MATKA KING ?

We position Brij Bhatti aka Matka King as this mysterious entrepreneur who seems to be chilling with all the high rollers. This creates an aura of mystery & intrigue around the character.

MATKA DEKHO

Insight: There are two upcoming events where visibility and interest will be highest for Indians– T20 World Cup final and the Kanye West concert.

Concept: The Matka King– a man with a matka on his head will be seen in VIP sections at both events. It will seem ridiculous since the matka over his head doesn't really let him see or experience too much. We will seed this ridiculous visual across the internet.

MATKA KING CO. X NOICE

Insight: We need to provide Matka King legitimacy as an entrepreneur.

Concept: We hijack a few products from Instamart's owned product brand – Noice, and simply change the packaging to Matka King & co. The branding will use distinctive 60s era visuals. Copy on the product will build up the Matka King and his policy of honesty.

ENTREPRENEUR'S ROUND TABLE

Insight: By the end of the financial new year, entrepreneurs often talk about investing, finance, running startups and acquiring funding. We hijack this chatter and insert Matka King into the public perception.

Concept: We send our matka man onto a round table where Tanmay Bhatt and Raj Shamani are present. Upon encountering our matka man, they start questioning him on many things and he gives humble but sharp answers to all of them. Why wear a matka– personal brand building. Matka King talks about his Matka co. products like they are a side hustle. His real business will launch on (trailer) date with Vijay Varma as the brand ambassador. Subtly roasts others– his daily turnover was 1 cr...1960 ..and adjusted for inflation, a yearly turnover 1500 cr. Tanmay, did the B in AIB stand for Broke?

Talent: Vijay Varma + Tanmay Bhatt, Raj Shamani

CROWNING THE KING

Concept: Here we finally own Brij Bhatti and Vijay Varma as the Matka King. We show a crowning ceremony where the entire cast is present. We hear Dagdu (Siddharth Jadhav) giving a speech.
“India ke startup king, jis pe poore desh ne apna daav lagaya, gareebo ke malik, imaandaari ke subedaar, ab iss singhasan pe padhaar rahe hain. Bolo sri matka king ki...JAI!”
As this is happening we show a small mountain of cash on which there is a throne. Vijay Varma sits on the throne, with other “his subjects” around him and instead of a crown, he is crowned by Sai Tamhankar and Kirtika Kamra with a Matka
The film ends with Gulshan and some cops having observed this through a gap in the door, and dismissively walk away. Before walking off, he claims Brij to be a common gambler, and the audience should decide for themselves on 7th April if he’s a King or a common thief.

MONEY BILLBOARD

Insight: At his peak, the OG matka king earned 1cr/day

Concept: We create a billboard in the shape of a transparent matka and fill it up with fake cash.
The copy reads: This is 1% of his yearly profit.
Learn business from matka king on PV. 17th April.

♥ ♣ ♦ ♠

Alternatively: A countdown billboard in the same shape
Copy:
When Brij's yearly earnings fill this pot
Matka King will release on PV

INFINITE MONEY GLITCH

Insight: At his peak, the OG matka king earned 1cr/day

Concept: We create a matka installation with old timey 60s era rupee notes (1000 rs) sticking out of it. If anyone pulls on it, it's a never-ending string of notes which tests a person's patience. In the end, we have a King card with a copy that says "Matka King earned 1000x of this per day. FInd out how on 17th April on PV" Alternatively, we can try and store his daily profit, and challenge people to get to the end.

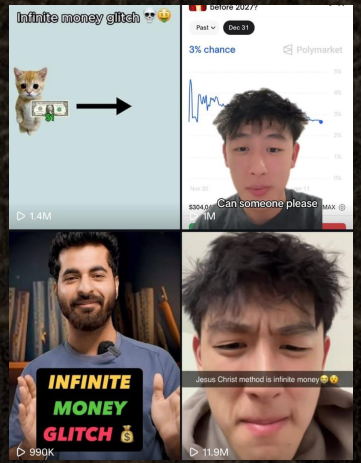
Asset: We get the cast to go and interact with the infinite money matka, the video will go live on owned social media.



FARZI X MATKA KING

Insight: Farzi and Matka King have one thing common- the trope of cash

Concept: Mansoor bhai of Farzi tries to get Brij into his operation, offers him insane rewards but Brij declines, stating that he is an honest fellow. Mansoor walks in, offers him a garish leopard print t shirt and offers to supply him with cash.
Mansoor says he's heard of the Matka King and reveals details about the operation.... And proposes a plan.
Brij gives farzi cash in matka rewards but keeps the cash he gets during bets. A perfect crime with 100% profit margins.
Brij drops a scalding line "Ganda kaam bhi imaandari se karte hain" and declines resolutely. "17 tareekh se aage, aap bhi matke ka dukaan kholo, imaandari hum sikha denge"

Talent: Kay Kay, Vijay Varma

POST

VIJAY DIRECTED BY VIJAY

Insight: Vijay Raaz with Vijay Varma in one frame is as iconic and massy as it can get! And we clearly want to make the Internet go crazy over our piece, so here it goes!

Concept: To push the audience to watch the show but without coming across as salesy and promotional, we get together these two icons to recreate the famous 'Aloo Le Lo' moment from the pop-culture fav: Welcome. We also seamlessly blend in the trending format of 'get random people and direct a 15s film' for me here.

Sample: The flow is simple: Vijay Varma is seen with Vijay Raaz debating on how to direct a promotional clip for his new title. Vijay Raaz in director mode gives him the best solution and there goes a very humorous take of Vijay Varma recreating Nana Patekar's 'aloo le lo' moment only here, he is selling matkas because he is ofc, the Matka King! We can end the 30s with bloopers of them switching the aloos with matkas and talking hilariously about the show.

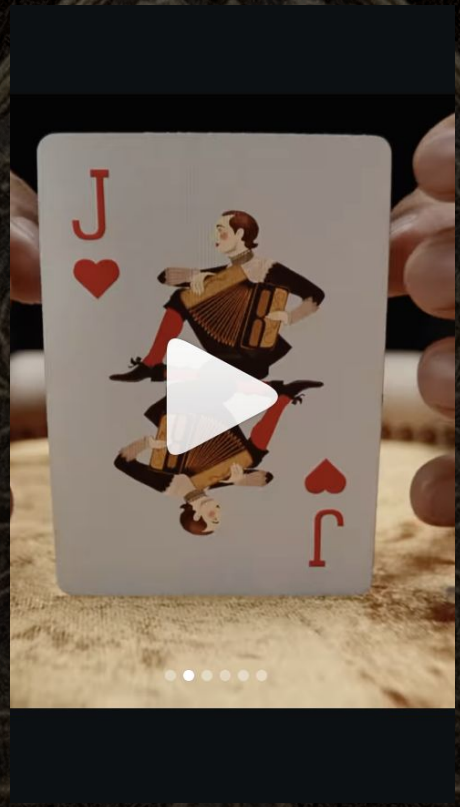
Talent: Vijay Varma, Vijay Raaz

CHARACTER CARDS

Insight: Brij Bhatti runs the matka.
But his rise isn't powered only by Matka, it's powered by relationships.
In Matka, every card has value.
In Brij's life, every person has a role.
And like cards, they can change the game.

Concept: Set against the energy of the show's title track, we visualize Brij's world through a symbolic deck of cards where each key character is represented as a playing card — Vijay Varma as the King, Dagdu as the Joker, his brother as the Jack, the two women as dual-faced Queens, and Gulshan Grover as the Ace that can threaten the throne. As Brij shuffles, lays down, and gathers the cards, we see how each relationship defines his power. The deck becomes a metaphor for control, loyalty, love, and danger — showing that while he may be the King, the game is never played alone.

Talent: Full Cast



CHARACTER CARDS

Sample:

We open to Vijay Varma on at a table, showing off a deck of cards

Taash ke harr khel mein Joker zaroor hota hai.
Joker ke muskuraahat ke peeche chhipi takat ko log aqsar samajhte nahi hai.
Par jab khel shuru hota hai, aqsar joker hi aisa panna hota hai jo raja ke power ko badhawa deta hai.
ikkey, raja, rani chaahe aapke paas jitne bhi ho, par khel ke ant mein, jeetaane waala panna toh joker hi hota hai...wo bhi..with a smile.

STARTUP KINGS' IMPRESSIONS GONE WRONG?

Insight: We all have seen how funny impressions of actors / real people always get the max engagement. Also, our very own cast member: Jamie Lever is a queen of impressions and the audience cannot wait or stop laughing in the comments about her different takes.

Concept: Here, Jamie in a quick reel impersonates the different startup founders in their atypical fashion. She won't even need to call them out by their name, their impression should be enough. Makes for a truly watchable unit and gets the audience excited for the cast and what the show has for them.

Talent: Vijay Varma and Jamie Lever

STARTUP KINGS' IMPRESSIONS GONE WRONG?

Samples:

Jamie mimics Nikhil Kamath and asks Vijay

'What if you were a matka for a year...' or 'What's your 5-year vision? IPO?

Jamie as Parul Gulati asks Vijay

'Matka doesn't need a campaign, and hair extensions don't either. The product speaks for itself. But I think aaj ke time pe, the online presence is important. Have you considered matka taking online?"

Jamie as some Parsi founder asks Vijay

'Matka? Haa su chhe? Main sirf Bun Maska janta hoon. Tamne partnership maa interest chhe?'

GALAT INTERN KO HIRE KAR LIYA!

Insight: The Internet loves these funny 'what will you do' takes that Aysha sultan has been treating them to.

Concept: In a fun bts style treatment, we get her on set with the cast to create funny scenarios which are all triggering for their characters. The video can end with an uno reverse of vijay or bun shah triggering aysha.

Sample:
She tells vijay Varma: What will you do if i break all your matkas, tell na what will you do, and so on triggers by saying many more things that they most certainly do NOT want her to do.

Talent: Vijay Varma, Jamie Lever, Kritika Kamra, Bunshah

PENDING IDEAS

MATKA KING BANN GAYE LINKEDIN GURU

Insight: Everyone knows LinkedIn is full of gyaan givers. "10 things I learned from waking up at 5am." That kind of thing.

Concept: What if Matka King did the same but made it actually fun? Brij Bhatti wasn't just a gambler. He was a businessman. So we're giving him a LinkedIn page and letting him speak like the OG entrepreneur he was. Him giving "gyaan" will be in tandem to our other ideas such as "The Entrepreneur's roundtable", "The Kanye Concert Stunt" & more.

Sample: Content Topics he can give gyaan on:
- Risk management — "When to bet big and when to fold"
- Brand building — "How I made my name bigger than any ad campaign"
- Reading people — "Business mein bhi andaza lagana padta hai"
- Loyalty in business

Talent: Vijay Varma, Jamie Lever, Kritika Kamra, Bunshah

TIME FOR ‘KHUD KI BEZZATI’

Insight: In the self-roast zone, the most powerful flex is laughing at your own legacy before anyone else can.

Concept: We create a fun self-roasting interview where Gulshan Grover is interviewing himself and essentially roasting himself. He’d ask himself questions like:
“You’re known to be the Bad Man of Hindi Cinema... do you think it’s because of your negative role or maybe you’re naturally just bad at acting.” In between Gulshan also gives it back. The conversation becomes a playful back-and-forth where the villain ends up arguing with and exposing himself

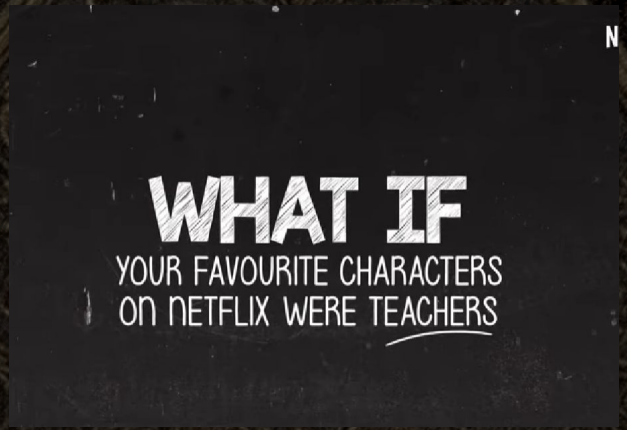
Talent: Gulshan Grover

MATKA KING MADE INDIA ADDICTED TO NUMBERS

Insight: The world of Matka King runs on the same principles as business school, just with higher stakes and faster consequences.

Concept: We stage an MBA-style session where Vijay Varma shows how Brij Bhatti used risk management and basic statistics to make the nation obsessed with numbers. Using a deck of cards, he breaks down probability, odds and calculated risk. He will explore topics such as:
- Game Theory: Every player at the table is making a move based on what they think you'll do.
- Probability and odds: How to calculate if a decision is actually in your favour.
- Information asymmetry: Who knows more at the table wins. Same in business.
- Loss aversion: Why people are more scared of losing than excited about winning

Talent: Vijay Varma



MATKA KING PRANKS

Insight: Even in a world built on gambling like Matka King, the real power lies in playing smart and playing fair.

Concept: At the Amazon Presents event, a card magic influencer performs a trick for Vijay Varma, revealing the card early and wrapping it up with an easy reveal. Vijay calls it out, saying that shortcuts ruin the game and if you are going to play, play properly.
The influencer gets rattled, thinking he has messed up, until we reveal Vijay was just pulling his leg. He ends by appreciating the trick, tying it back to the idea that whether it is magic or Matka, the game only works when you respect it.

Talent: Vijay Varma, Karan Singh Magic

MATKA

AB MBA CLASSES HONGE MAZZEDAAR!

Insight: The world of Matka King runs on the same principles as business school, just with higher stakes and faster consequences.

Concept: We design an MBA-style class set inside the world of Matka King where business theories are explained through betting table lingo.
– Game Theory: Every player at the table is making a move based on what they think you'll do.
– Probability and odds: How to calculate if a decision is actually in your favour.
– Information asymmetry: Who knows more at the table wins. Same in business.
– Loss aversion: Why people are more scared of losing than excited about winning
