IDEAS

PHASE 1:
THE PRESS CONFERENCE HIJACK

Insight: Fans are naturally skeptical of “actors turned athletes.”
In a press release q&a, we see Pulkit getting into a beef with Neeraj, who attends the conference.

Concept: There is an official Netflix Q&A in which Pulkit is talking about the “emotional graph” and physically “acting” out the role of a boxer. Neeraj Goyat sitting in the press section snatches the mic and interrupts, “Bhai, acting aur boxing mein utna hi farak hai jitna asli mukke aur thappad mein hove.” Boxing can’t be done by camera, boxing can be done by training only. Beta, glory ka rasta seedha na hove. Divyendu as the slick brother doesn’t defend the art but hypes the man. He goads Neeraj into a corner accepting a live challenge with the show’s launch date as the date of the match.

Cast: Suvinder Vicky, Jannat Zubair, Neeraj Goyat, Pulkit Samrat, Divyendu.

Takeaway: Date Announced For Glory.

PHASE 2:
THE WEIGH-IN SCANDAL

Insight: A weigh in is a significant part of boxing. We show using seeding that even here, things were not as they appeared to be.

Concept: At the formal weigh-in, the tension is palpable. As Pulkit steps onto the scale, the camera zooms in on Divyendu, standing right behind him. While adjusting his suit and looking “official,” Divyendu calmly slides his shoe forward and puts his toe on the scale, making Pulkit’s weight seem much more intimidating. Neeraj catches the movement and kicks the scale in rage and realizes the entire Association is against him. He looks at the lens and says “Tanne lage hai ye setting karke tu jeet jayega? Ye toh sirf trailer hai chore… Glory ka rasta seedha na hove.

Talent: Neeraj Goyat, Pulkit Samrat, Divyendu.

Takeaway: Glory Trailer Out Now.

PHASE 3:
THE FINAL ROUND

Concept: In the fight, Neeraj is dominant and manages to deliver heavy blows while Pulkit is seen reeling. Suddenly, the arena lights go pitch dark. There are sounds of a fight, a van door slamming shut, and loud shouting in the dark. When the lights are back on, Neeraj is nowhere to be found. All that remains in the ring are his gloves. The referee, after receiving orders from a man in a mask, raises the hand of Pulkit. Pulkit, bloodied and smirking, grabs the mic and says, “ Glory ka rasta seedha na hove.

Talent: Jannat Zubair, Suvinder Vicky, Neeraj Goyat, Pulkit Samrat.

Takeaway: Glory Now Streaming on Netflix.

AMPLIFICATION

Concept:
The @drink.niro duo, Nirvaan and Vedant, will drive the buzz around the Pulkit vs Neeraj boxing match throughout the entire campaign from phase 1 to phase 3. They'll create fun, high-energy content by picking sides, playfully trash-talking each other, defending their fighters, and even making ridiculous, over-the-top bets to keep the hype alive.

Concept: We transform everyday metro handholds into boxing gloves, turning the daily commute into a metaphor for the fight for power. Custom glove cutouts slip over existing handles so that when passengers grab on, it looks like they're gripping a pair of boxing gloves — subtly placing them "in the ring."

Contextual copy like
"Glory sabke haath nahi aati. Pakde raho."

reframes the simple act of holding on as ambition under pressure. The idea brings the show's core theme — that glory is hard-earned and harder to keep — into a lived, tactile space, making commuters physically participate in the fight before directing them to watch Glory on Netflix.

BILLBOARD

Concept: We combine the themes of murder mystery and superimpose it with the visuals of the world of boxing
The visual shows a body bag propped up as a punching bag.
The twist- simple animatronics inside the body bag move! As if an actual body is struggling inside it..

Social asset: We send the cast to take videos or photos in front of the billboard and the moving body bag scares/impresses them. Candid reactions would make for a very watchable unit.
