UNDERSTANDING KING

King positions Shah Rukh Khan in a space we haven't seen before, not just charisma but sheer authority. The character feels controlled, calculated, and quietly intimidating, someone who doesn't announce power but embodies it.

The world of the film thrives on reputation, scale, and consequence, where his name carries weight long before he enters the frame. This isn't about rise or fall. It's about presence, what it means to be "King" when the world already sees you as one.

This isn't just a film launch, it's a cultural moment led by Shah Rukh Khan in his boldest avatar yet. A shift fans haven't seen before, sparking massive conversation. Fandom won't stay passive, they'll decode, recreate, and turn every element into shareable content.

What makes King big isn't just scale, but the arrival of a darker, more commanding SRK fans have been waiting for. This goes beyond promotion, it becomes behaviour, where the character starts living across platforms and everyday conversations.

DECK OF KING

Insight

Personalization becomes more powerful when fans move from simply interacting with content to becoming part of it. They don't just want to watch, they want to step into the narrative, shape it, and see themselves within it, especially when built on formats they already love and engage with.

Concept

For the first time, a film's cast reveal doesn't drop as a passive video, it unfolds as an interactive system on Gemini, where fans can experience the reveal and then go on to customize it in their own way.

A custom KING deck powered by Google Gemini (Nano Banana), where fans can create their own playing cards with their faces, built through a seamless, product-first experience.

Users generate their own decks, inserting themselves into the world of King, with one unchanging rule: the King is always Shah Rukh Khan.

Execution | Nano Banana

- It begins on social, where Shah Rukh Khan, Red Chillies Entertainment, and Google India drop a striking visual, a full deck of playing cards, each revealing a character from the film.
  Subtly marked below: “Made with Gemini.”
  This isn’t just a reveal, it’s a signal. The call to action reads: “Make your own KING deck.”
- Seeded posts from creators already showcasing their personalized decks spark curiosity and set the tone. Users move to Gemini to try it themselves.
- Inside Gemini, they find “Create Your King Deck.” On tapping it, they upload their photos and instantly generate a personalized deck of cards. They assign themselves or their friends to roles like Jack, Queen, and Ace, with each card rendered in a cinematic, King-inspired aesthetic.
- One rule always holds: The King card remains Shah Rukh Khan.
  What users are left with is a deck that mirrors the film’s world but with themselves placed inside it.
- They download and share their decks, turning them into collectible expressions of fandom. What starts as a character reveal becomes a participatory wave, where fans place themselves inside the world of King.
- The experience extends on-ground through influencer kits, live photo booths, and screening activations, where attendees can create, print, and take their cards home. Even invites become physical decks, pulling people into the game from the start.
- The result is a system that blends personal identity with film mythology, where everyone can play, but the King never changes.

FIND YOUR PLACE IN KINGVERSE

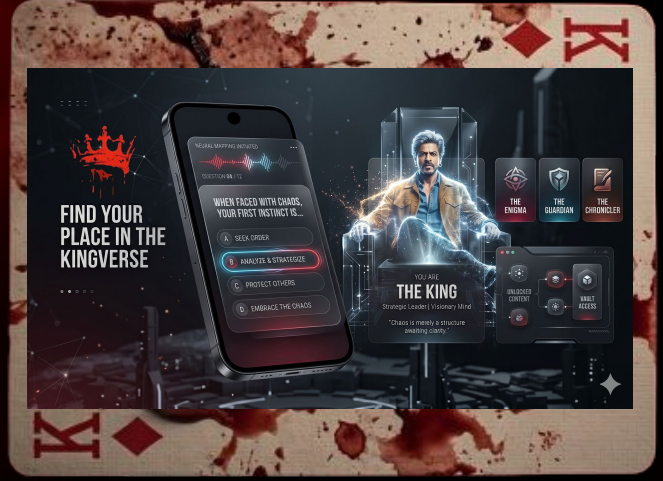

Insight

People don't just want to know characters, they want to see themselves in them. Finding where they belong in a larger-than-life world makes the experience more personal and engaging.

Concept

Turn the world of King into an interactive personality, playable quiz experience on Gemini.

WHICH CHARACTER ARE YOU? is a Gemini-powered quiz that maps users to a character from the film, making the story personal before they even watch it.

Google Gemini

ONE HAND CLAP MEDIA PVT. LTD.

Execution | Quiz

Users find a quiz on Gemini reading “Which character are you in the King Verse?”

They answer a series of quick, intuitive questions:

- How do you handle betrayal?
- Power or loyalty?
- Lead from the front or control from the shadows?

Based on their responses, Gemini reveals:

- Their character match
- A defining trait (e.g. The Mastermind, The Silent Power)
- A signature dialogue in tone

Multiple outcomes drive repeat play, while select results unlock deeper content like exclusive character drops or hidden insights. By turning character discovery into self-discovery, Gemini transforms the film from something you watch into something you belong to.

Note: Once the characters are fully defined and we have deeper insights into them, we can create more tailored and character-specific executions.

Gemini Quiz Prompt

Act as an immersive personality-test architect. I am going to take a quiz to determine which character I am in the "King Verse." Your Role: Do not ask me for a topic. Immediately begin the quiz. Ask 3 quick, intuitive questions—one at a time. Do not tell me if an answer is "right" or "wrong." Instead, treat my answers as inputs that build a personality profile. Keep the tone sophisticated, slightly dark, and cinematic (fitting a "Kingverse" theme). After the 3rd question, analyze my choices and reveal: My Character Match: (Give me a specific, evocative name). My Defining Trait: (e.g., The Mastermind, The Silent Power, The Iron Fist). Signature Dialogue: A brief, chilling, or powerful quote that represents my character's outlook. Start now with Question 1: "How do you handle betrayal?" Question 2: "Power or Loyalty" Question 3: "Lead from the front or control from the shadows?" Why this works better: Removes Friction: By defining the topic ("Kingverse") within the prompt, you skip the "What topic do you want?" phase, making it feel like an instant experience. Changes the Objective: Your previous prompt was a trivia engine. This version is a psychological profiling engine. It stops the AI from grading you and instead encourages it to synthesize your answers into a character archetype. Sets the Tone: Explicitly asking for a "sophisticated, slightly dark, and cinematic" tone ensures the output matches the branding of a "Kingverse" without you having to ask for it every time. Immediate Start: By embedding the first question at the end of the prompt, you force the AI to jump straight into the action the moment the prompt is triggered.

YOUR KING TITLE

Insight

From “King of Bollywood” to “King of Good Times,” the word King has always symbolised mastery, attitude, and presence. Today, identity is social currency.People don’t just want to consume culture, they want to see themselves in it.

Concept

“Your King Title” is a first-of-its-kind Gemini-powered experience through nano banana that translates who you are, based on your chat history, into a cinematic “King of...” title, making every user feel like the main character of their own story.

Google Gemini

ONE HAND CLAP MEDIA PVT. LTD.

Execution | Nano Banana

- It starts right inside Google Gemini, where users come across a simple prompt: “Generate your KING Title.” It sparks curiosity and pulls them into the experience.

- Once clicked, users follow an auto-prompt where the user is asked to upload a clear photo of themselves, allowing Gemini to respond with a personalized identity: KING of _____.

  In the same moment, that identity comes to life as a KING-style playing card—featuring their face, their title, and a visual aesthetic inspired by the film’s world.
- What they’re left with is more than just an adjective, it’s a badge of identity that places them in the King Verse. A downloadable, shareable card they can post across platforms, turning it into a social flex. As people share their titles, Google and Red Chillies Entertainment repost the best ones, pulling more people into the experience and expanding the world of KING organically.

Prompt:

Act as an expert AI portrait generator and analyst. Your very first response to this prompt must be exactly the following text, and nothing else: "To get started on your custom playing card, I have analyzed our chat history to understand your personality, thinking style, and patterns of expression. Now, I just need a clear, front-facing photo of yourself to serve as the foundational reference for your high-end, realistic portrait. Please upload your photo whenever you are ready!" Wait until the photo is provided before generating anything else. Once the photo is uploaded, use the insights gained from our chat history to generate a sharp, modern, slightly poetic, and identity-driven title in the format “King of ___” for male users or “Queen of ___” for female users, ensuring it avoids generic or overused words. Next, create a portrait-format cinematic playing card featuring the user as the central character. The card must be clearly identifiable as a premium playing card: if the uploaded subject appears male, generate a King of Hearts card; if the uploaded subject appears female, generate a Queen of Hearts card. Render the user’s uploaded face in a highly realistic, sharp, non-cartoon style with a calm, composed, powerful, and slightly mysterious expression featuring subtle intensity in the eyes to add a thriller tone without exaggeration. The visual tone must follow a dark, premium, high-end action-thriller-inspired playing card aesthetic, framed around the head and upper torso with controlled, slightly directional cinematic lighting casting soft shadows for depth.

Prompt (Contd.):

Use a color palette of deep blacks, charcoal, burnt reds, and subtle antique gold accents. Include refined playing card elements: ornate vintage-style borders, the appropriate rank symbol (“K” or “Q”) and heart suit icons in opposite corners, and a subtle crown motif integrated into the design. The card must feature distressed textures, scratches, worn edges, and realistic paper grain to create an aged, premium finish. Enhance the atmosphere with soft smoke, dust, and ember-like particles. Crucially, derive two to three core personality traits from the chat analysis and translate them into elegant, restrained, and meaningful symbolic elements seamlessly embedded around or within the character composition—such as faint overlays, soft motifs, reflections, or textures—strictly avoiding obvious or decorative corner placements. Clearly display the generated identity-driven title (“King/Queen of _____”) using bold, premium serif typography that is perfectly balanced and integrated with the overall composition rather than floating randomly. The final output must completely avoid weapons, violence, blood, scars, aggressive props, caricature, stylised illustrations, and cluttered layouts, resulting in a minimal, visually striking, and refined character reveal that feels intentional and intelligent.

100 DESH. 100 THEORIES.

Insight

Fans love creating their own theories about movie characters; it gives their creativity a spark.

Concept

King is already ‘100 deshon mein badnaam' & fans can build literally 100 theories. Gemini enables them to build their own fan theories through auto prompts. They just have to fill in which country, what is he wanted for, scale of his actions & boom, their theory is ready. From there, fans can add their own twist and make it theirs.

Google Gemini

ONE HAND CLAP MEDIA PVT. LTD.

Execution

A film critic calls out the ‘100 deshon mein badnaam’ line saying it’s exaggerated, unrealistic, kuch bhi and questions it with, “Kaunse 100 desh bhai?”

In response, SRK drops a list of 100 countries on social. Nothing more.

Now, creators who are SRK fans start building their own fan theories using Gemini’s auto prompt. They also mention how they used Gemini to create the theory, with each one picking a different country. Many of them take it a step further by using Gemini to visually bring their theories to life.

SRK then starts reposting his favourite ones with reactions like:

Now it becomes a trend where people start making their own theories & posting them because SRK might repost. And it becomes a thing: 100 Desh. 100 Theories.

SRK will keep interacting with these until 100 countries are ticked. It's like SRK fan army vs the critic. And we see 100s of fan theories coming on social media because Gemini made it possible.

We close with both the critic and SRK reacting to their favourite fan theories.

The Scale:

Google Gemini

ONE HAND CLAP MEDIA PVT. LTD.

Prompt:

Create an interactive cinematic experience titled “100 Desh. 100 Theories.” centered around a powerful, mysterious action character known as “King.” Begin by asking the user to choose a country where the story is set, what the character is known or wanted for, and the scale of his actions, ranging from a low-key operator to a high-profile criminal or even a global threat.
Using these inputs, generate a unique fan theory that feels like a gripping action-thriller narrative rooted in that specific geography, with a tone that is intense, sharp, and slightly enigmatic. The character should come across as calculated, unpredictable, and larger than life.
Once the base theory is generated, invite the user to add their own twist, expand the backstory, or escalate the stakes so they can shape the narrative further and make it their own.
Present the final output in a premium, stylized format inspired by a King playing card, with a gritty, textured aesthetic, deep red and black tones, and subtle blood splatter detailing. Include cinematic frames of the character in action within the chosen country. The character should have the look and presence of a Shah Rukh Khan–style persona from a high-end action film, with sharp features, intense expression, and a sleek, powerful screen presence, while not directly replicating or referencing any real individual. Ensure the overall experience feels fast, immersive, and creatively empowering, allowing users to build their own version of a global legend in seconds.
